INTERNATIONAL TRACING SERVICE

Catalogue of Camps and Prisons in Germany and the Occupied Countries 1939—1945.

In presenting this compendium of information the International Tracing Service is attempting to comply with repeated requests for a publication embodying all relevant data relating to concentration camps, camps of both conscripted and voluntary labourers, prisons and indeed all types of institutions in which foreigners were confined during the war years 1939—1945, in Germany and the occupied countries.

The International Tracing Service has no information on camps which were located in the satellite countries. Only those camps established in Germany and the occupied territories, and on which some form of evidence is available, have been listed. The original source of information quoted is given in brackets after each item, so that an evaluation of the evidence may be made by the reader. For example (Buergermeister), (Buchenwald strength reports), indicate that the preceding statements were taken from a Buergermeister's report and Buchenwald records respectively.

While every effort has been made to ensure that the information given is as accurate and as complete as possible, and careful research has been carried out in original documents, and, in many cases, by field investigations, it is realised that these sources are not infallible. Therefore any suggestions, corrections and additional information which will enable the International Tracing Service to complete the documentation in succeding issues and supplements, will be welcomed.

The present edition of the catalogue is not a final one. Research work and investigation are continuing, and much more information is expected from ITS field officers and from the National Tracing Bureaux. Supplementary issues will thus be made, as soon as sufficient complementary data can be processed.

The International Tracing Service hopes that when the final supplement has been distributed, a complete survey of all camps and prisons will be in possession of all those to whom this type of information has become vitally important.

Director I.T.S.

Arolsen, 24th June 1949

DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS.

The descriptive text, which forms the main body of the book, is not arranged alphabetically, but according to the sequence of the G. S. G. S. 1:250000 map series pages, issued by the Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces, which were used for checking the geographical locations of all camps and prisons. For the benefit of those who may wish to check the locations on maps, the map reference is given. The Kreis or province is also mentioned. For ease of reference, an alphabetical index is given at the end of the book, listing camp names, type of camps, code names and code numbers, abbreviations and number of the page on which fuller information can be found. No information is given against the camp code names or numbers, these being cross referenced to the main locality.

Frontiers indicated are, of course, the post war boundaries. For example the former German territory east of the Oder/Neisse is regarded as Poland, however since in most cases a camp or prison will be more widely known under the former German name, both the old and the new name are usually given (e.g. Sonnenburg-Slonsk, Kreis Oststernberg, Germany, now Poland; Auschwitz-Oswiecim, Poland).

Each locality is delt with in a separate paragraph; within each paragraph the type of camp or camps is indicated under one of the following main groups: —

1. Konzentrationslager ("Concentration Camp" e. g. Dachau, Buchenwald).

Under this heading are included all those camps which were under the jurisdiction of the Reichssicherheitshauptamt (RSHA); many of the ghettos (Theresienstadt and Kaunas for instance) which were controlled by RSHA are listed as concentration camps.

RSHA was the usual authority for ordering imprisonment in concentration camps, and all types of prisoners were committed: — political prisoners (politische Haeftlinge or Schutzhaeftlinge), NN prisoners (Nacht und Nebel), Jehovah's Witnesses (Bibelforscher), habitual criminals (Berufsverbrecher), asocial elements (Asoziale), homosexuals (Homosexuelle), Jews (Juden) and other categories.

In some cases civilian workers employed in the manufacturing of secret weapons were at one time, for security reasons, housed in some concentration camps. At first they were not treated as prisoners but were free to come and go in the camps. Towards the end of the war, however, no distinction was apparently made between these free workers and the prisoners, the former receiving the same treatment and conditions as the prisoners.

2. Sonderlager ("Special Camps").

This type of camp housed persons segregated for special treatment. For instance foreigners and Germans who refused to work for the Reich, or who worked badly, might have been sent to Hinzert. Sentences were usually short term.

3. Arbeitserziehungslager ("Workers Educational Camps").

Persons sentenced to serve a term in these camps were usually workers who had broken their contracts, whose labour records or production records were considered unsatisfactory, or persons released from prisons and concentration camps and considered in need of an "educational" course to fit them for industry. Terms were not supposed to exceed 8 weeks.

Note: Conditions in Sonderlagern and Arbeitserziehungslagern were very similar, and the death rate in both was high. There are indications that many prisoners served fairly long sentences although these camps were originally intended to hold short term prisoners.

4. Prisons.

In this group are included all penal institutions to which persons would have been committed by normal judicial courts, "People's courts" (Volksgerichtshof) or "Special courts" (Sondergericht). These are:

Gefaengnisse, Strafgefaengnisse	Prisons
Untersuchungsgefaengnisse, Untersuchungshaftanstalten	Remand prisons
Arrestanstalten	Police prisons
Gerichtsgefaengnisse	Prisons attached to judicial courts
Frauengefaengnisse	Womens prisons
Zuchthaeuser	Penitentiary or convict prisons
Jugendgefaengnisse	Juvenile prisons

5. Sicherungslager ("Security Camps", e. g. Schirmeck-Vorbruck).

Persons under a "Sicherungsverwahrung" (security custody) order could be held in a "Sicherungslager" for several months while awaiting trial or investigation. After trial, these prisoners, if not cleared and released, could be transferred to prisons or concentration camps. (Correspondence between Sicherheitspolizei and Sicherungslager Schirmeck). Sicherungsverwahrung might also be ordered on expiration of normal prison or concentration camp sentences (War Crimes Comm.).

6. Straflager and Strafgefangenenlager ("Penal or Punishment Camps").

These camps were under the jurisdiction of the penal administration. The regime was much more severe than in "Zuchthaeuser", and similar to that of the concentration camps (e. g. the Emsland group camps.)

7. Arbeitslager ("Work Camps").

These were usually forced labour camps and were guarded, and the movement of the inmates was restricted.

8. Gemeinschaftslager (Civilian Workers Camps).

These were unguarded communities, usually of foreign workers.

9. Wohnlager (Housing Units) also unguarded communities.

10. Internierungslager (Civilian Internment Camps).

The "Kalender fuer Reichsjustizbeamte", 1939 edition, has been the chief source of information relating to prisons and penal institutions in Germany. Very little is known so far about the prison work details which were sometimes housed in small camps near the place of employment; investigation is still proceeding, and the ITS will eventually list these also.

"Arbeitsaemter" in the Western Zones of Germany have provided fairly complete information on the various forced labour and voluntary workers camps.

For concentration camps the ITS has consulted original camp records, formerly held by the War Crimes Commission and has also received help from the National Tracing Bureaux and ex-political prisoners associations. In the case of Dachau, Buchenwald, Flossenbuerg, Mauthausen, Natzweiler and Neuengamme sufficient material is available. However, for Sachsenhausen-Oranienburg, Ravensbrueck, Gross Rosen, Auschwitz and other camps in the Eastern European countries and in the Soviet Zone of Germany, very little material has been obtained, and so far the ITS has had little opportunity of verifying the evidence at hand.

Symbols and Abbreviations used in the Catalogue.

Symbols used for concentration camps and Kommandos, code names and abbreviations are explained as they occur in the text and in the index.

The source of information is given in an abbreviated form and is put in brackets after each item. For example (BNTB) indicates that Belgian National Tracing Bureau is the authority for the preceding statement.

The main concentration camp Mauthausen was situated on the border of the two villages Mauthausen and Marbach, in the vicinty of the quarry Wiener Graben.

In the ITS records, the CC is first mentioned as existing in July 38. The treatment in Mauthausen and its Kdo.'s was especially hard, even as compared with other CC's (US War Crimes Comm.). The current number in the prisoners registration book reached 139000 in April 45 (International Red Cross Comm. Service Watson). Prisoners arriving with the Code „Kugel" -bullet- marked on their transfer papers were executed soon after their arrival, without entering their names into the prisoners register; if entered by mistake, the names were crossed out and the numbers given to other prisoners. Thus an estimated number of 25000 pris. do not appear in the CC's registers or death books (Former inmate of the Mauthausen Schreibstube). As for the use of the prisoners for work in the armament industry, Mauthausen had to provide with manpower a territory covering the former districts Wien, Niederdonau, Oberdonau, Steiermark, Kaernten of the "Ostmark" and the environments of Passau from Bavaria.

The following is the official list compiled by the Mauthausen Section of the Dachau Detachment of all camps, Kdo.'s and Sub-Kdo.'s of the Mauthausen Concentration Camp ring. The camps designated by capital letters alone (A, B, etc.) are all Kdo.'s of Mauthausen, the camps designated by a capital letter and a number (A-1, D-1) are Sub-Kdo.'s of the Kdo.'s, designated by the corresponding capital letter. Kdo.'s were usually in charge of an officer. A Sub-Kdo. usually was in the charge of a non-commissioned officer. The list has numerical and alphabetical order.

On 13. 12. 44, 20 Mauthausen pris. were taken there to restore Hartheim as castle and establish a childrens home, space for 400 children. Found heaps of bones and clothing. (J. A. Section, TUSA, Mauthausen File 3 J. A./132, sworn statement Golebski, Adam).

In the original number-books of Mauthausen the remark " † ERHOLUNGSHEIM" with date is often found. It may be assumed that Hartheim and "Erholungsheim" are the same.

The criminal police Linz investigated Hartheim crematory and supplied a list of approximately 1500 civilians who were cremated in Hartheim between 1939 and 1945. According to the lists all these deaths had occured in Linz, Waldegg 82. The cause of death was usually given as mental, TB or other incurable diseases. It is assumed that Linz, Waldegg 82 was an extermination center for the unfit.

Concentration Camp Neuengamme, in Hamburg-Neuengamme, Hausdeich 60, reestablished as an independent CC on 4. 6. 40 (Photocopies of Gestapo files Duesseldorf). This CC had to provide with slave labor the armament factories of Northwestern Germany, North of Buchenwald territory. Towards the end of April 45, the camp was evacuated, mostly towards Luebeck where the inmates were brought on board the ships "Cap Arcona", "Thielbeck", "Athena", together with prisoners evacuated from other CC's, mainly Stutthof. A total of about 10000 prisoners were on board the three ships, when an air attack on 3. 5. 45 sank two of them, the "Cap Arcona" and the "Thielbeck" (various reports of former CC inmates present at the catastrophe).

The Reichsministry of Justice had set up prison camps in the Emsland area as early as 1923. In 1934, concentration camps were established in Boergermoor and Esterwegen; then, a large scale plan was worked out for the utilization of the moors around, and towards South of Papenburg. The whole system of camps was put under the administration of the Papenburg "Strafgefangenenlager", and in 1939 the existing or proposed camps received numbers I—XV. Afterwards however, only the "Strafgefangenenlager", were administered by the Papenburg prison, the concentration camps came under the CC Neuengamme administration, the PoW camps came under the various "Stalags".

Localities further away from Buchenwald were served by so-called "Aussenkommandos", i. e. work details under the same disciplinary rule and the same supervision as in main CCs. One of the Buchenwald Kdos., Dora Mittelbau, became so large that it was eventually made an independent main camp. Other Aussenkdos. formerly administered by Buchenwald were transferred to this Dora- or Nordhausen group (see p. 248, Dora). On the other hand, the Concentration Camp Niederhagen was reclassified and became the Buchenwald Kdo. Wewelsburg. Another small independent concentration camp, Sachsenburg, was closed and the 430 inmates transferred to Buchenwald in December 1937.

Industries within or comparatively near to the main camp were supplied with manpower from the main camp itself. The pris. working in these plants had to be present at the morning and evening "Appell" (roll-call). In emergency cases where absence from "Appell" was inevitable, the administrative office set up a special temporary "Aussenkdo." for such pris., excluding them from the general roll-call. Many such "Aussenkdos." were set up in Buchenwald as a result of air-raids in the vicinity. In Weimar, Gustloffwerke I and the household of the "Reichsstatthalter" were the only permanent Buchenwald Aussenkdos.

Among the invoices of manpower distributed, the following institutions and enterprises occur most frequently, giving only occasional daily strength reports or none at all:

Deutsche Ausruestungswerke GmbH., Weimar-Buchenwald, abbreviation: DAW, over 1000pris.
Bischoff, Wilhelm, Weimar, for Kdo. "Luftschutzbauten" — Kdo. of air-raid shelter construction, about 15 prisoners.

Koeditz, Maurermeister, for "Bunkerbau" — air-raid shelter construction for "Gefangenen-Barackenbau" — pris. barracks.
"Kuehlhaus" construction of refrigeration chambers.
"Lager 29" for the "Zentral-Ersatzteillager" — Central spare parts magazine, about 70 pris.

OSWIECIM — AUSCHWITZ pow. Biala, woj. Krakowskie Poland Q 51/Y 74

Concentration Camp "Auschwitz", originated at the beginning of 1940 by establishing a concentration camp in the suburb Zasole of Oswiecim, in part of the premises of the Polish Tobacco Monopoly and on the adjacent grounds; this camp grew gradually into a complex comprising the whole suburb Zasole and 10 more villages situated between the river Wisla — Vistula and the village Sola (PWCB).

In the autumn of 1941, work commenced on the construction of an extermination camp in the Brzezinka—Birkenau moorland. On 10. 7. 42, the establishment was announced of a women's section in Auschwitz.

In July 1943, there was a separate unit under the command of CC Auschwitz, called "Arbeitserziehungslager Birkenau". The forms for administration of this Arbeitserziehungslager give no indication that it was connected with the CC administration. Release from this Arbeitserziehungslager was made only to the Gestapo. (Authorized forms for administration Oranienburg).

On 6. 11. 43 an order was issued by the RSHA by which all Jewish prisoners in the CC's in Germany had to be transferred to Auschwitz and the "Kriegsgefangenenlager Lublin" (photocopies of the Gestapo acts in Duesseldorf).

Auschwitz I — Stammlager in Oswiecim — Auschwitz,
Auschwitz II — in Brzezinka — Birkenau and
Auschwitz III — Aussenlager, i. e. the administrative unit for the work details (PWCB).

On 25. 11. 44 Birkenau was again united with the "Stammlager" and the Kdo. in Monowitz became Auschwitz III.

About 400000 prisoners were registered during the existence of the CC; the prisoners who went to extermination were not registered and are not comprised in this number; the main camp was liberated on 27. 1. 45.

The registered prisoners had to work either in the Auschwitz complex or they were distributed over the so called "Aussenkommandos" — work details (PWCB), and Auschwitz supplied the manpower of slave labour to the industries lying in the territory covering the part of the former Sudetengau, East of Friedland, the part of the former Oberschlesien, South of the line Neustadt i. O.—Blechhammer, and the part of Poland lying South of the line Stara Kuznica—Trzebinia/Krak.

In Febr. 1943, both parts of the brigade were transferred to the Channel island Alderney, for work on fortifications (Netherlands Red Cross).

Around 22. 6. 44, Alderney was evacuated to Sollstedt, Germany, following the route: Alderney—Guernsey—Jersey—St. Malo—Rennes—Nantes—Tours—Nevers—Chalon s. S.—Dijon—Landres—Epinal—Toul—Nancy—Metz—Sedan—Namur—Brussels—Kortemark—Sollstedt, where the prisoners arrived at the beginning of Sept. 44. In Toul, an attempt at escape resulted in the massacre of 10 pris. by the SS guards.

On Sept. 22nd, the Kdo. was turned over administratively to CC Buchenwald (Netherlands Red Cross).

CC Kdo. of Buchenwald, starting 22. 9. 44 with 570 pris., prisoners numbers of the series 88000; ending 28. 10. 44, when the Kdo. was transferred administratively to CC Dora.
